Any visible defects must be reported to Kinly in writing within 3 (three) Working Days (a day, other than a Saturday, Sunday or public holiday in Malaysia, when banks in Kuala Lumpur are open for business) after the delivery of the Hardware, with reference to the invoice number or, in the absence thereof, the number of the dispatch note or order confirmation. If this period has expired without written notice (complaint) regarding a defect in the Hardware, the Hardware shall be deemed to have been accepted by the Customer. In any case, the Hardware is deemed to be accepted if the Customer has taken the Hardware into use, has delivered it to third parties, or has commissioned it, unless a complaint has been lodged within the stipulated period of 3 (three) Working Days.
- 17.6 The warranty with regard to the Hardware delivered by Kinly is limited to the warranty granted by the manufacturer of the Hardware or the supplier of the software (delivered in connection with the Hardware), both in terms of its substance and its duration. Therefore, only the warranty conditions and warranty period of such manufacturer/supplier apply to the delivered Hardware, or software delivered in conjunction with said Hardware, replacing any deviating provisions in these Terms and Conditions. The Customer accepts the intended warranty conditions of the manufacturer/supplier. These warranty conditions are supplied along with the Hardware or, in the case of software, constitute part of the license terms. It follows from the foregoing that Kinly only has a warranty obligation if and insofar as it (or the Customer directly) can claim a warranty obligation from the manufacturer or supplier. The processing of the defective Hardware will be carried out according to the procedure of the manufacturer or supplier and the instructions given by Kinly.
- 17.7 Without prejudice to the provisions in the warranty conditions of the manufacturer, supplier or Kinly, the warranty will at least lapse if:
- (i) without the prior written permission of Kinly, supplier or the manufacturer, repairs, modifications or extensions have been made to the Hardware or software by the Customer or by others;
 - (ii) changes, repairs or extensions have been made to the Hardware or software that Kinly has indicated that this can lead to the lapse of the warranty;
 - (iii) in Kinly's opinion the Hardware has been used or maintained carelessly, incorrectly or inexpertly;
 - (iv) changes have been made to the warranty certificate or any seal of the Hardware has been broken;
 - (v) type numbers, serial numbers and/or warranty stickers are damaged, altered or removed;
 - (vi) any defects have arisen by not connecting or using the Hardware or software as prescribed and/or not connecting or installing (approved) other products to the Hardware or software;
 - (vii) defects have arisen due to deviating environmental conditions, insofar as such conditions have been stipulated or by other external causes such as fire or water damage.
- 17.8 The warranty period is not extended or renewed by carrying out the work performed, or replacement products supplied within the context of the warranty.
- 17.9 Kinly is under no obligation to repair defects that have been reported after the expiry of the warranty period set by the manufacturer or supplier, unless Parties have agreed in the Agreement upon the delivery of Maintenance and Support Services, which includes such a duty to repair. Work and costs of repair that are delivered or made outside the scope of the warranty will be charged by Kinly in accordance with its usual rates.
- 17.10 Only in the event of the warranty conditions of the manufacturer or the supplier in the relationship between Kinly and the Customer for whatever reason being deemed to not be applicable or are declared inapplicable, the following applies with regard to the warranty:

- (i) The warranty period for the Hardware is one year after the date of delivery of the Hardware and in the case of software, one year after delivery of the license code.
- (ii) The warranty includes the free repair or replacement of (parts of) the Hardware in the event of defects in materials and/or workmanship of which the Customer proves that these have occurred within the stipulated warranty period.
- (iii) If Kinly replaces parts/Hardware to fulfil its warranty obligation, the replaced parts/Hardware will become Kinly's property, if Kinly so desires.
- (iv) Unless the Customer has a Maintenance and Support Service agreement with Kinly, any costs that exceed the sole obligation of replacement as described, such as transport costs, travel and accommodation costs as well as costs of disassembly/assembly are payable by the Customer.
- (v) The warranty expires in case of circumstances as mentioned in article 17.6.

If such instructions are followed, however, Customer shall pay for that work or services in question in accordance with Kinly's standard rates. - 24.11 Unless agreed otherwise, the Customer strictly may not provide, sell or sublet the Equipment to third parties. If the Customer sublets the Equipment with Kinly's consent, the Customer still remains fully responsible and liable.

- 25.1 The Customer must use and maintain the Equipment that Kinly provides in sound condition in accordance with its nature and purpose.

ARTICLE 26 REPAIRS

- 27.5 The Customer is liable for all damage Kinly suffers because of loss or damage to the Equipment while the Customer has or should have had the Equipment in its possession. Theft on location is at the Customer's expense and risk.
- 27.6 Immediately on Kinly's request, the Customer must pay a deposit that Kinly will determine.
- 27.7 If damage to the rented Equipment occurs, Kinly may deduct the repair costs and any late return charges from the refundable deposit.
- 27.8 Kinly will never be liable for any damage or loss resulting from fire, shocks, injuries or any other cause attributable to the improper functioning or deterioration of the Equipment, any part of it, or any wiring to or from the Equipment.
- 27.9 Kinly will never be liable for damage to tapes, diskettes and other data carriers, regardless of the cause of the damage, or for any damage resulting from the total or partial deletion, deterioration or garbling of images and files recorded or to be recorded, even if that deletion, deterioration or garbling is due to malfunctioning of the Equipment with fittings or an error by Kinly's personnel.
- 27.10 To prevent damage caused by losing recordings and files, Kinly recommends always making a working copy and not using the original (the master tape) for screening displays and so on.
- 27.11 The Customer shall promptly notify Kinly of any claim received by Customer alleging an infringement of Intellectual Property Rights of a third party. Kinly shall refer such matters forthwith to the manufacturer of the Equipment.

- 28.4 Kinly shall indemnify the Customer against any employment claim brought against the Customer by or on behalf of any transferring Dedicated Employee which arises as a result of any act or omission by Kinly in the employment of such Dedicated Employee during the provision Services.
